Worshiping the Golden Calf. The Ideal set up in Ward.

A Howling Success From a Free Silver Standpoint.

Jobs, Sept. 4.-The meeting held here last evening by the followers of the "golden calf" was as near a farce as any attempt ever made by a political gathering. Posters were up announcing there would be a special train from Nelsonville to return after the speech, and also the McKinley Club of Orbiston with 150 strong and their special drum corps would attend the meeting in a body, and they came, in all, twenty-seven. But the Drum Corps failed to materialize. A large bonfire was burned out on the commons. It was the intention of the followers of the "gold calf" to make a great demonstration with this fire, but the pressure was too great and before dark in the eagerness the match was applied, the committee was kept busy driving the boys away from the fire so people who were more than ten feet away could see lurid flames ascend some five or six feet in the beautiful heavens. The Nelsonville Glee Club who were to have a special train, arrived upon the scene of sacrifice about 6:45 in a hurry. Thus the 200 were crowded into a small surrey. At 7:15 sounds of an approaching band were heard and the managers were in great glee, saying: "Our crowd has just arrived." The New Pittsburgh colored band followed by (?) one man carrying a lantern was the large delegation which arrived from that town. When the late train arrived, this was their last hope, crowds of ladies were at the depot and the Logan Glee Club and the silver-tongued orator (nir) arrived. Well they proceeded to the massive platform which was enclosed by a stout, high, unbroken railing and enclosed in, in case any of the orators got so enthused they could not escape. The colored band of New Pittsburgh played a large patriotic tune after which our Honorable Townsman Thos. Harris, in a loud voice introduced the Logan Glee Club; he so thrilled the people that they sat as if stricken dumb, until some Free Silverite in sympathy with the Glee Club began cheering. The Nelsonville Glee Club then stepped forward and began to sing, but behind the enclosed railing it was an utter impossibility to hear them sing. The Chairman then introduced L. D. Vickers, of Logan, who had been in suspense so long that great chunks of enthusiasm issued from his massive breast, after some few minutes of cheering (for Bryan) he was able to succeed again. Well to say he interested the people, for if silence is golden, he had a lot of golden hearers, after a speech of about one hour and twenty seven minutes he thanked his slumbers for their orderly attention. After fifteen minutes cheering for Bryan and Free Silver the Glee Club sang another hymn. If J. Woodworth then made a short address and many interruptions of cheering i. e. for Bryan. After the conclusion of his address some more hymns were sung a piece of (?) music then broke the stillness of the evening serene, after the meeting was brought to an abrupt close. The silver-tongued orator from New Pittsburgh failed to materialize as did also two brass bands and fire works. In the front of the enclosed railing was a lithographical drawing executed by an artist of the "Golden Calf Club." It was at first thought to be a drawing representing an enthusiastic cheerer of McKinley but later and closer inspection proved it to be a "what is it?" for no one could tell. A picture of McKinley which has been in use since McKinley ran for Senator was a conspicuous banner, also a picture was pretty badly used up, of the candidates of a few years ago. A reward of merit was offered to anyone not onto the combination who could tell one word of a song which was rendered by the Nelsonville Glee Club.

currency, the best paper money we ever enjoyed, is not money in the economic sense of the word. It is only a promise to pay in coin. Read it and you will see this. The silver dollar don't read the same way. It tells us that it is coined by the U. S. Then on one side it says 'one dollar.' It don't promise anything. It is a dollar. It contains 371 1/2 grs. of pure silver and enough alloy to make it wear well and raise its weight to 412 1/2 in weight. This alloy constitutes one tenth part of the weight of our American silver dollar.

Our silver and gold money each have what is called intrinsic value independent of their coined value. Bullion is the metal before it is coined, and has a commercial value, which is intrinsic.

In common conversation we speak of money as including coin on all forms of paper used as currency, nothing is money, in the true economic sense but gold and silver. All else is a promise to pay money.

This being the undisputed fact, we are ready to answer our friends inquiry, "Have we not plenty of money?"

The answer is NO, with all the emphasis warranted by the truth. Why? Because one half of it, heretofore used to make the promises to pay money, has been debased, degraded, or demonetized, and the other half is left for final redemption. In place of both gold and silver, gold alone is left as the base on which to rest the promise to pay. Silver is refused for redemption except where specified as acceptable.

Gold is even paid for the noble old greenback at the treasury where, under the gold standard and John Sherman construction it is denied that silver is coin. It has ruined half our money of redemption, made money scarce, and advanced its purchasing power, until a bond, a note, a mortgage, or even Grosvenor's salary, or any other man's salary and the tax duplicates, demand and force the farmers, the manufacturer and the toiler of the land to give up twice the wheat, twice the fabrics, twice the products and twice the days work demanded of them when money was plenty. If every man in the United States had a million bank notes money, it would be no more plenty, but the promises to pay would burst the credit boiler and turn the country over to ownership of the goldocracy.

"WHERE GROSVENOR IS AT."

Hon. Chas. H. Grosvenor is for the gold wing of his party and its gold standard. He has been in Europe for information. There he found out that the election of Bryan would postpone bimetalism. So he says this is bad, for if true it would make gold more valuable than now. It would also enhance congressional salaries (his own if elected) and the purchasing power of movements in notes, bonds and mortgages and the pay of every one who lives out of the public crib.

The men who follow the flag of McKinley and Grosvenor have great influence in Europe. This is due to the fact they prefer leaving the question to Europe rather than to America whether we shall return to bimetallic conditions. Grosvenor is a very good representative of European sentiment on the gold single standard question. He may truthfully enough tell us what Europe would like to do and what they say or his congressional district has to say, is far more important, if not quite so agreeable.

There is an impression widely prevailing among farmers and miners that the McKinley-Grosvenor or gold standard, demands of them too much wheat and too many strokes of the pick to pay Grosvenor's salary and other taxes.

It has become useless to say money is more plentiful than ever when they know half of it has been demonitized and the gold half is gone to Europe where it pays 194 cts over every dollar to the bond holder there, when "coin" worth 100 cents was promised here.

They know of but three ways to get wealth, to earn, to inherit, or to steal. They hear that our hard times are due to over production, but when they know of the millions of people who want the things produced but are too poor to buy them, they know that the true cause is not over production.

They hear of nothing over produced except millionaires, assignments, foreclosures, crimes and poverty.

When they demand reform in the way of bimetalism, they are told they can have it but not until foreign nations see fit to give up their advantage of a single gold standard. To this they object because they do not like to risk their suit in the hands of parties interested against them.

The people, (a word that is now written with a big P, - the same as Populist since Bryan's nomination) are extremely uneasy. They have waited thirty years for the tariff to come to the rescue, but have waited in vain. They have waited for bimetalism and have thus far voted and waited in vain.

They are very uneasy. They have snapped the cable that bound them to party allegiance, and broken the idol they no longer worship.

They have commanded all candidates for president and congress when they come to the forks of the road to say (distinctly enough to be heard) which road are they going to take? the gold road to Europe or the gold and silver road to prosperity?

They have been supposing that congress possessed the power to coin money and regulate its value, and therefore are not stronger disposed to transfer this power to trans-Atlantic courts.

They say our fathers never thought of such a thing as asking England for the right to make gold and silver the money of redemption. They did this without asking any foreign nation if they might do it. Their children did the same for 81 years and now they are told this high authority has been given over to Europe by the gold wing of the Republican party headed by McKinley and Grosvenor.

They are very uneasy. They prefer their own congress to a jury of thieves indicted for getting wealth, not by earning it, not by inheritance but there is only one other way, by stealing it.

Hon. W. E. Fink, Jr., of Somerset, the Democratic candidate for Congress in this district, was present last Saturday and addressed the Convention. His speech was argumentative and able, and he is the most eloquent young man who ever addressed a McArthur audience. He is also a very pleasant gentleman, and made a good impression on every person he met. There will be an effort made to have him here again before the Campaign closes. -McArthur Enquirer.

Poisons engendered by food fermenting in a dyspeptic stomach are the direct cause of rheumatism, gout, bronchitis, liver and kidney complaints, asthma, pneumonia and many nervous ailments.

These results are prevented by the use of the Shaker Digestive Cordial, a remedy discovered and prepared by the Shakers of Mount Lebanon, N.Y. It is in itself a food and has power to digest other food taken with it. Thus it rests the diseased stomach and finally masters the worst cases of dyspepsia. It acts promptly and fresh strength and increase of weight soon follows. The first dose, taken immediately after eating, abates the pain and distress so dreaded by dyspeptics. Trial bottle - enough to prove its merit - 10 cents.

Laxol is the best medicine for children. Doctors recommend it in place of Castor Oil.

FERDINAND F. REMPEL, Assignee Logan Fire Clay Co.

Death of Frank Blasius.

On last Saturday morning Mr. Frank Blasius died suddenly of heart disease. He had nearly recovered from an injury received some months ago while riding his wheel, and was sitting up, pleasantly talking with his family, when the Angel touched him, and he died within a few moments.

Frank Blasius was born in Nunweiler, Trier Province, Prussia, in 1830. He came to America in 1851, locating first in Lancaster. He spent two years in Chicago and then came to Logan, remaining here until his death. He opened a restaurant, and subsequently became cashier of the People's Bank. He engaged in the merchant tailoring business with Biehauf and Miller, and about twenty-five years ago established a store of his own, and has continued this business, the last few years, associating his son Frank Blasius, Jr., with him as junior partner.

He was married, while in Lancaster, to Mary Barfinger, who lived but two years. In 1863 he was married to Mary Seipel. Seven children were born to this marriage, five of whom survive.

This much records the clear outlines of his career, and the like in form might be said of any one who attained the age of 66 years. But while the above give the outlines they are far from being a faithful record of his life. And in fact it is difficult in the short space allotted to an obituary to say of him what ought to be said. The difficulty is not from the scarcity of material but in selecting from the abundance on hand. The leading traits of his character were briefly summarized in the sermon preached at his funeral. Father Powers, taking for his text the words of Jeremiah: "Let your voice rest from weeping and your eyes from tears for there is a reward for his work, saith the Lord," explained their extent and meaning, how their application to be pertinent and therefore consoling must be taken in conjunction with other passages of revelation, and if the life of the deceased could stand this test of scriptural scrutiny then were the words of the prophet a message of comfort and relief, and he said
